Sheriff Smith of Sonoma county has obtained damaging evidence against Henry Yamaguchi through the confession exacted from Harry Missuva, a Japanese laundryman, near the Starbuck ranch, where the Kendall family was murdered. He will not at this time give out what he has learned from the man because the fact that his admission has strengthened the case they have against the missing murderer. Missuva spent the night with Yamaguchi when the murder is supposed to have been committed. He is known as a close friend of the missing man. Such confessions as have been obtained from the new prisoner came after more than twenty hours' steady sweating.

POLICE SEEK YAMAGUCHI IN CITY

Entire Detective Force Engaged in Running Down Mar Accused of Murder

Information that Henry Yamaguchi, the Japanese who confessed to Mrs. Starbuck that he had murdered the Kendall family, has been seen in Oakland and is probably in hiding here was placed in the hands of Captain of Detectives Walter F. Peterson today. He is at present working in a clinic that may lead to the discovery of the murderer. It is interesting that the Japanese, a man whose exact whereabouts have not been ascertained, is now in this city and Detective Smith was dispatched to the Japanese Methodist Episcopal Mission at 170 West street here this morning.

Rebbery and Vengeance Is Supposed to Be at the Bottom of Crime; Friend of the Japanese May Be Charged as an Accessory

SANTA ROSA, Cal., Aug. 5.—Although Charles Enove, a Japanese arrested at Mess. Grande yesterday in connection with the mysterious murder of the Kendall family at Cazadero, has not been charged with any crime, it is thought that he will be booked as an accessory of Yamaguchi, the fugitive whom he harbored at his home the night after the murder must have been committed. That robbery as well as vengeance might have been the motive for the crime is indicated by the fact that before his last visit to Cazadero Yamaguchi borrowed one dollar from Secretary Yoshida of the Japanese Association here and on his return a few days later gave the lender five dollars in gold.

Bloody Ax Is Discovered

A bloody ax was found today buried in the garden at the ranch. District Attorney Lea regards the discovery of the ax as a direct substantiation of the story told Mrs. Starbuck by Yamaguchi, who declared on his visit to Oakland that Mrs. Kendall attacked him with an ax.

Lea Seeks More Evidence

District Attorney Lea, accompanied by Coroner Blackburn, left today for the scene of the murder. No inquest will be held until the officials are fully satisfied that all three of the bodies have been recovered.

Francis V. Keessling, G. O. P. Candidate for Lieutenant-Governor

NATIVE SON IS IN RACE FOR HIGH STATE POSITION

Northern California has an energetic, popular candidate for the Republican nomination of lieutenant-governor in Francis V. Keessling. He is a native son of the state and has spent his entire life in California.

Keessling was born in San Jose, was educated at the Stanford University, and is a very prominent member of the San Francisco bar. From the first he made a success of his profession and has handled many difficult legal problems.

His work before the Legislature of 1908 was responsible for the exemption of Stanford University from taxation. Through his work he has saved the University many thousands of dollars.

For more than ten years he has been connected with the National Guards and at the time of the fire in San Francisco he commanded the First Battalion of Coast Artillery, which did yeoman service in controlling the element which was let loose over the devastated city.

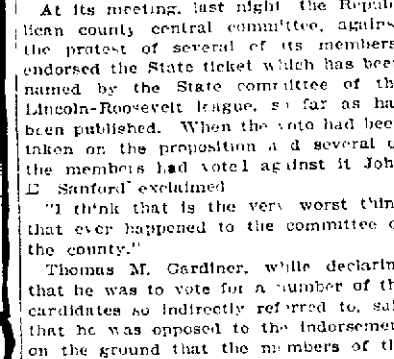

Keessling is a native son of the state and has spent his entire life in California. He is a very prominent member of the San Francisco bar and has handled many difficult legal problems.

COMMITTEE ENDORSES STATE TICKET UNDER PROTEST OF MEMBERS

Lively Meeting of the County Central Body Develops Discussion of Factional Leanings

Opposes Tickets

At its meeting last night the Republican county central committee, against the protest of several of its members, endorsed the State ticket which has been named by the State committee. The Lincoln-Roosevelt League, so far as its members are concerned, has been taken on the proposition that a number of the members had voted against it.

Thomas M. Gardiner, while declaring that he was to vote for a number of the candidates so indirectly referred to, said that he was opposed to the endorsement on the ground that the members of the committee had assembled as representatives of the Republican party of the county and that they had no right to endorse a faction of that party, a faction which would show to others that there was a split in the organization.

The committee then decided to meet again next Monday night in the room of A. P. Leach, in the Union Savings Bank building, when action may be taken toward the appointment by the committee of tickets for the Republican county convention. The members of the committee have not been prepared for those tickets.

Richardson protests. This proposition also was opposed by Richard W. Richardson, of Berkeley, who stated that he did not want to have it said of him that he had been one of the few to put tickets in the field for residents of the several assembly districts to vote for. In the event that it was decided that there would not be a ticket, in some of the assembly districts, he would be forced to vote for a ticket of the district in which he lived.

Richardson asked who elected the State delegates. Leach replied that they were elected by the delegates to the county convention. Richardson said that he thought it ought to be looked after very carefully for the reason that a great deal of importance would attach to these delegates in certain circumstances.

Richardson said that he did not think the committee ought to be satisfied with any ticket which might be made up by any person who might take a notion to do so. He said that he would vote for the ticket of the district in which he lived.

Richardson said that he thought the committee ought to call a meeting of the several factions and select with them a ticket. He said that he would vote for the ticket of the district in which he lived.

Judge Lawlor's Title to Promotion.

Judge William P. Lawlor is a candidate for Judge of the State Supreme Court. His candidacy is based on his conduct and course of procedure in the special prosecutions conducted by Francis J. Heney under the direction and financial auspices of Rudolph Spreckels. Judge Lawlor offers his record in these cases as a title to honor and judicial promotion. Since he has presented this record as a claim on public gratitude and as testimony to his integrity, learning and capacity, it becomes necessary to examine it closely in detail. By becoming a candidate for the Supreme Bench on this record Judge Lawlor has necessarily brought his acts and conduct in connection with the so-called graft cases under review.

More conclusive proof of Lawlor's unfitness to hold judicial office could not be presented than this record. What he presents as a title to honor is a title to dishonor. Instead of giving him a claim to judicial advancement it furnishes the very best of evidence why he should be retired from the bench instead of elevated to higher judicial position.

Never before in the judicial history of the United States was so much shysterism on the bench, so much perversion of law and fact, so much judicial chicanery, so much intolerance and petty tyranny, so much unfairness, so much obvious collusion between bench and prosecution as was exhibited in the court over which Judge Lawlor presides while the charges against Patrick Calhoun and the other officials of the United Railroads indicted with him were under consideration. Lawlor's conduct cannot be excused by dwelling upon the enormity of the offenses charged against Calhoun and his associates. A cancer on the body politic cannot be cured by planting another cancer to eat it up. Injustice and corruption on the bench cannot be condoned by expatiating on the sin of bribery and the peril of the defendant's life. No matter how culpable the defendants may be it is the sworn duty of Lawlor to be just, upright and impartial. Can it truthfully be asserted that he is either?

From the first Lawlor treated Calhoun's attorneys with studied discourtesy. Many times he took occasion to reproach them in language laden with insult and insinuation. His manner and demeanor on the bench indicated that he regarded Calhoun's employment of attorneys to defend him as a proof of criminality. His attitude toward the attorneys for the defense seemed to be based upon the assumption that the lawyers forfeited all claim to respect and courteous treatment by accepting Calhoun's employment. The elementary principles of criminal law that a defendant is entitled to be represented in court by counsel and to the presumption of innocence till found guilty were ignored or reversed.

Now for the history of the events leading up to the scene of last Wednesday when Calhoun and his attorneys were goaded by Lawlor's conduct and treatment into denouncing him as he sat on the bench:

The constitution and codes of California require criminal cases to be tried within sixty days or dismissed. During the past three years Judge Lawlor has denied more than fifty demands made by Patrick Calhoun for a trial. In the present year he has continued his cases, over his objection and protest, for one hundred and ninety-three days: February 17th to April 25th (67 days), April 25th to July 14th (80 days), July 14th to July 29th (15 days), July 29th to August 3d (5 days), August 3d to August 29th (26 days). These continuances were put upon the ground that James L. Gallagher is absent.

Gallagher left California Thanksgiving Day, November 25, 1909, more than eight months ago. His departure was published in all the papers December 1, 1909, and was known then or before to both District Attorney Langdon and Judge Lawlor. No proceedings were taken by Judge Lawlor during Langdon's term of office to investigate Gallagher's departure. District Attorney Fickert took office January 8, 1910, and on January 24, 1910, he produced before Judge Lawlor a number of witnesses to testify concerning Gallagher's absence. Judge Lawlor then started a proceeding, still pending, which he called "In re Gallagher, a Defaulting Witness." The title invented by the judge implies that Gallagher had been subpoenaed, and in his remarks in court Wednesday Judge Lawlor said that he could not tell whether he had been subpoenaed or not. If he had been subpoenaed the subpoena, with the certificates of service on Gallagher, would be on file. No proof has ever been made that Gallagher was subpoenaed, and all the testimony shows that he was not subpoenaed.

As already stated, the investigation of Gallagher's absence began before Judge Lawlor January 24th last, that is more than six months ago, so that he has had full time to find out all about it; and that he has found out all that he believes there is to be found out about it is shown by the fact that in the six months he has taken testimony on the subject of Gallagher's absence on seven days only: January 24th, 26th and 28th; February 2d, March 25th, April 11th and July 16th. If he has not fully exhausted all inquiry concerning the matter the fault is his own, for he has had plenty of time to do so. He admitted Wednesday in court that there was no testimony tending to show that the defendants had anything to do with Gallagher's departure or absence, and yet he insinuated that they might have had something to do with it, and this without one word to justify his evil suggestion.

Another fact also to be remembered is that these cases were taken on habeas corpus to the Supreme Court a month ago. When they were heard in the Supreme Court the Chief Justice asked the District Attorney if the trial judge desired to make any showing with respect to his refusal to give the defendants a trial. Assistant District Attorney Lane then stated to the Chief Justice that he had consulted with Judge Lawlor and that Judge Lawlor said he was content to stand upon the record which had been submitted to the Supreme Court. If Judge Lawlor had any charges to make he should have made them then. The trouble, however, with making charges in the Supreme Court was that he would have been forced to prove them, and as he had no evidence he very wisely abstained from making charges. More than that, the making of charges might have required him to be a witness, and if he has avoided one thing more than another during the past three years, it has been subjecting himself to cross-examination. He therefore permitted the case to be submitted to the Supreme Court without charges, and he reserved his charges, evil insinuations and innuendoes to be delivered from the bench in the court over which he presides, and which has been justly denominated a "coward's castle."

Wednesday while expressly disclaiming the possession of any evidence to prove them, Judge Lawlor made what were justly construed to be charges, although he did so by innuendo, evil suggestion and insinuation only. He was suffered by Mr. Calhoun and his counsel to proceed with this misconduct until he had finished.

While he was reading his remarks, which were in typewriting, counsel observed that he had a number of copies on his desk, and they knew at once that the remarks were intended for public consumption and the copies for the newspapers. Prompted by all these facts counsel arose and asked permission to reply. The judge refused them permission and told them to reply in the newspapers. They answered that they preferred to reply where the charges were made—in open court. He again refused them permission, and they thereupon in protest and in indignation characterized the conduct of the judge in the language which has been reported in the press. Lawlor thereupon, in the exercise of that unlimited power to punish for contempt which is given to courts, ordered them imprisoned for five days.

He first made charges which he had no evidence to sustain, which he has had eight months to investigate and which he had an opportunity to present to the Supreme Court but did not, and then denied the persons attacked all opportunity to reply, and when they protested and denounced his conduct he ordered them to be sent to jail.

This is the record that Judge Lawlor offers as a claim to judicial promotion. It is only a part of the whole story, to be sure, but it is absolutely correct as far as it goes. We submit that if Judge Lawlor were not callous to shame he would seek to hide it from the public gaze instead of presenting it to the voters of California as a title to honor and a preferred claim to a seat in the highest tribunal of the State.

Supervisor William B. Bridge is thoroughly canvassing his district and is making a host of new friends who appreciate his work during the past four years.

Coroner Tisdale's Candidacy.

Dr. Charles L. Tisdale has made an excellent record as Coroner of Alameda county since he was elected to that office four years ago. He is an active, energetic, popular and painstaking official, and is eminently deserving of success in his candidacy for re-election.

Dr. Tisdale is a man of forceful character, tireless energy and sterling integrity. He is withal, a stalwart Republican and has been one of the most vigorous and enthusiastic workers in the party for the past twenty years or more.

Among all classes of his fellow townsmen in the city of Alameda Dr. Tisdale is highly respected and very popular and is recognized as one of the most influential party leaders. He has besides a large following of personal friends throughout the county who have great admiration for his sterling qualities. These have rallied loyally to his support and his re-election is assured with, doubtless, a much larger majority than he obtained four years ago.

About the oldest and rankest humbug in politics is the straw vote fake. If honestly taken it means nothing, but in forty-nine instances out of fifty it is a pure frame-up.

Farmers Defeat Good Roads.

The proposed good roads bond issue in Contra Costa county failed to carry because a strong vote was cast against it in the farming districts. In the incorporated towns and the manufacturing precincts along the bay shore the vote was overwhelmingly in favor of the bonds, but it was not quite strong enough to overcome the opposition developed in the rural precincts. It is an extraordinary fact that the class that should have been most benefited by the proposed road improvements would have defeated them. This class would have been least burdened by the increased taxation the bond issue would have entailed. An examination of the assessment roll of Contra Costa county shows that only 29 per cent of the taxes is paid by agricultural property owners. Town, manufacturing and railroad property pay the other 71 per cent. The incorporated towns pay no taxes at present for road construction and maintenance outside their boundaries, but the townsmen were willing to tax themselves to build good roads for the farmers. They were willing, however, to assume a burden from which they can claim exemption; that the rural districts might be provided with a modern system of improved highways. But the farmers rejected this voluntary professional assistance. They preferred to continue the haphazard, inefficient and costly road system now in vogue. They could not see that the advantage of good roads is with them; that they were to get something exceedingly desirable and necessary at small expense to themselves and a vastly greater expense to their neighbors. The roads they have at present are notoriously bad, but they will have to put up with them for a good while longer. They have slapped the people who offered to assist them in the face, and when they do get in a more reasonable frame of mind they are likely to find the townspeople less favorably disposed. It is regrettable that the Contra Costa farmers were so blind to their own interests.

An Unwise Coercive Policy.

One of the measures which the people of this State will vote upon at the general election in November is a proposed amendment to the Constitution authorizing a large bond issue for the improvement of Islais creek and India basin for the benefit of commerce. The indebtedness will be paid, of course, out of the revenues of the port.

The bonding proposition is a meritorious one and necessary for the fuller development of San Francisco's available waterfront, which is controlled by the State, and to assure San Francisco's future commercial prosperity. THE TRIBUNE is heartily in favor of the measure and sincerely hopes it will carry at the polls.

But while this important measure in San Francisco's special interest is pending the business men of that city by their course of action are putting its prospects of success in serious jeopardy through their unfriendly and unneighborly attitude toward other bay cities, particularly those located on the eastern shore of the bay by coercing those of their employees who were forced to seek refuge in them as the result of the conflagration of April, 1906, and who have since established their homes here, to transfer their residence to that city or sacrifice their employment. No policy could be adopted more suicidal in its character. Its tendency is to excite a spirit of resentment and opposition to the proposed waterfront bond issue in the east-bay shore cities in retaliation. San Francisco needs all the support it can get on this side of the bay in favor of the measure to assure its success, particularly when it is considered that the southern counties are decidedly lukewarm toward the bonding proposition and that a strong opposition will, in all probability, manifest itself at the polls in that quarter on election day. The business men of San Francisco should be sagacious enough to clearly comprehend that the wiser policy for them to adopt is that which will be most conducive to the strengthening of the bonds of friendship between their city and its near neighbors and not that which will arouse their antagonism.

Twenty Years Ago in Oakland

Does Oakland or Los Angeles enjoy the distinction of being the second largest city on the Pacific coast?

This question has now become of much interest to residents in both places. The census enumerators' approximation of the population of Los Angeles is 50,400. This makes it certain that the race between the two cities is a close one, for the reason that there is cause to believe that Oakland has in the neighborhood of at least 50,000 residents.

Told About People

Major General Frederick D. Grant, the eldest son of President and Gen. U. S. Grant, was not long ago a guest at a dinner given by certain college and school teachers. The chairman rose to introduce him. He had hunted up the history of the Grant family, and was much pleased with himself that he had something so interesting to say.

"When Fred Grant was a boy at West Point," he began, "his father, the famous general, wrote to the commandant inquiring how the son was progressing.

"You need not worry," the commandant wrote back. "Your son is getting better marks in everything than ever you had in anything."

The gentleman was not quite so self-satisfied when Gen. Grant rose to respond.

"That is a perfectly true story," he said smilingly. "I remember the incident perfectly, but there is a mistake of one generation. I, and not my famous father, am the general who wrote to the commandant, and my son is the one whose father had such poor marks. But never mind, Mr. Chairman, it's all in the family."

—Christian Herald.

"One must go abroad to hear truths about his own country," writes an American from an Austrian spa. "I was present yesterday when Professor von Isenberg's recently published account of his visit to America was under discussion by a number of physicians. He had nothing but praise for his American colleagues and for the institutions which he visited. He said that, as Americans had for so many years gone to Europe to study medicine, he hoped that European medical students would now reverse the order, go to America and receive inspiration, as he had, from the methods of its great physicians and surgeons and the maintenance of the people by whom the palatial hospitals there are maintained. In speaking of the benefits which humanity had derived from the use of anesthetics, Dr. von Isenberg said that the memory of the pioneers, Morton, Charleton and Bigelow, was kept green, and that 'every day' was celebrated on October 6 in every part of America. Where was I on the many other days, I wonder?"

Manager Cohn of the Bell wants to tell the mothers of Oakland that there is something at the Bell that the children will thoroughly enjoy. Tomorrow is Saturday and the children's day off. Send them to the Bell. Let them have a good time. They'll be tickled to pieces and you'll enjoy their pleasure.

$380,000 BRIDGE WILL SPAN RIVER

Electric Roads Contemplate Improvements Along the Sacramento.

SACRAMENTO, Aug. 5.—A little over a year ago a splendid bridge will span the Sacramento river between Sacramento and Broderick. Each will accommodate roads and wagon traffic and pedestrians. A contract has just been entered into between Sacramento and Yolo counties and the Northern Electric and the Vallejo-Northern Railway for a bridge at M street to be built on the right in every detail and to cost $380,000 of which amount Yolo county is to pay $53,334 and Sacramento county $326,666. The connecting road on the Yolo side and other details will be paid by the railroad and will bring the cost to zero that $400,000. The railroad also agrees to furnish a large terminal and shops at Broderick to cost $250,000. This bridge will permit the building of the Alameda Northern Railroad from Alameda to Suisun, Vacaville and Woodland to Sacramento.

The Southern Pacific recently entered into a contract with Sacramento and Yolo counties to build a bridge at M street to cost $700,000. It is under construction and it is to be the greatest bridge in California. Its piers are being sunk into the bed of the river now. The Southern Pacific is also building a great double track steel bridge across the American river at this place. The present bridge over the Sacramento and American rivers will be razed.

CHILI WILL SEEK U. S. FRIENDSHIP

President Montt to Speak to President Taft on Diplomatic Relations.

NEW YORK, Aug. 5.—President Pedro Montt of Chili, who is in New York en route to Europe, will not neglect the opportunity when he meets President Taft tomorrow to have a heart to heart talk in regard to the relations of Chili and the United States. The relations of the Chilean President declares in an interview published here today are ample and cordial, but they might be closer.

"I want to speak with President Taft," said President Montt, of the immediate future. Five years hence the United States will open the Panama canal. Chile and the United States are good friends and will I believe always remain so. "Chile is a sea country whose wealth is in ships and commerce. When you open the Panama canal I want to see the United States engaged in commerce with us. I hope there will be one or two regular steamship lines between Valparaiso and New York. That is what I wish first to speak of to Mr. Taft. I want also to discuss Chilean politics with him. I want to tell him of some of the far-reaching improvements we have introduced in Chile—our railroads for instance, which we owe to yours—and I should like to confer on further reforms I have in mind."

STOCKTON UNION MEN LOCKED OUT

Master Plumbers Prepare for Fight Against Employes; Struggle Expected.

STOCKTON, Aug. 5.—With the employers' belief will be a fighting blow to the unions will be delivered on the 11th inst. plan commencing today, when the master plumbers will lock out all of their union employes, and also serve notice on them that they can secure work until they renounce the union.

For several days the employers' association and all of the master associations of every trade in the city have been holding meetings in an effort to arrive at some decision whereby if of the employers would shut in union and make a fight for the open shop. A few of the small firms have held off against such a move, but those in charge of the struggle declare they will have to come into the pool.

The plumbers were selected to open the battle and the painters to follow in a week with a lockout and the lines will keep up the work until every master workman has locked out a union man.

The union men assert that this is just the move they have been waiting for and that they will do everything in their power to stop it. They say that the building has been done, and most of it is carried on under great difficulties now it is proposed to force the struggle on both sides with a few of nothing but dispute as soon as possible. Many outside mechanics have been brought here already.

HUNTS 20 YEARS FOR MAN'S JONES

Mrs. L. Lacheneie Awarded by Discovery of Teeth of Her Father.

BERKEA, Aug. 5.—Learning the remains of her father or whom they had searched over half the state of California and sent letters of inquiry over half the United States, Mrs. L. Lacheneie of Sacramento have returned over the Klamath river to this city after a quest of twenty years had ended finally with success.

All that remains of Harry Castor who died in northern California of digestion years ago according to the Indians his former neighbors are the loose bones of the skeleton. These will be shipped in a few days to Sacramento. The identification was complete. It was like the work of an obstinate knot for which a period waited every effort to straighten it. At its intricate tangles. Now retired to laughter her husband has the last doubt as to the identity of the bones. Not several days ago buried on the 14th ranch which the deceased owned near the mouth of Tuolumne creek on the Klamath river about a mile and a half below Martin's ferry. From her mother Mrs. Lacheneie had learned that her father had had perfect teeth and from the fact that the Indians have found with all the teeth of the skeleton from 13 feet by the Indians have maintained their false stories of a deceased daughter convinced that after a search lasting for a score of years the remains of her father have been discovered.

TO OUR PATRONS

This market will be situated on the site of the first general market opened in Oakland in the year 1870, and the present firm is a direct descendant from that market in this line of business the original firm or business being conducted by a Mr. Crossley, who sold to King & Mount; then King's selling to Mr. Buteau, made the firm name Mount & Buteau, a well-known name among the old-timers to this day. J. C. Dolan succeeded Mount & Buteau and in turn sold to the one-time popular and best established name in this line of business, L. C. Beem, who conducted the business for a period of twelve or fourteen years; the business was that bought by Tallman Bros., who added more fame to the old tree and gained full confidence of the people; they, in turn, sold to the present firm, who will be more than pleased to serve you in the future as in the past, only under much more modern and sanitary conditions.

TEMPLARS BOOST BIG EXPOSITION

Gay Party on Way East Wear Panama-Pacific Buttons.

RENO, Nev., Aug. 5.—Yesterday was a day of music, good times and surprises on board the Knights Templar special. At Sacramento a half-hour stop was made, and a band played to an admiring audience. The Templar Commander, Sir Knight L. S. Brenner, with his wife, headed the Sacramento delegation that joined the train here. At Auburn the train was stopped by a flag, and Sir Knight George W. Bisbee, California No. 1, headed many boxes of peaches and grapes on the baggage car, saying that, as he could not go, he wanted to be represented.

Sir Knight S. A. Clark devoted himself all day to looking after the comfort of everybody on the train. First, he distributed badges of a beautiful design, calling attention to the fact that California wants the triumphal convolve of 1915 in Los Angeles; then in quick succession came cigars, mineral water, and stronger water, fruit and sandwiches, with the result that there was little complaint of the dining car at the luncheon hour.

EXPOSITION BUTTONS.

Dr. Edwards of the development board distributed Panama-Pacific exposition buttons, and secured the promise of every one on the train that they would also not opportunity to work for the Exposition.

At Truckee a lot of Tahoe trout came aboard, the gift of a Sir Knight who is sojourning at the lake.

At Sparks the train was boarded by the local reception committee, who extended greetings and good wishes. There, too, became enthusiastic boosters for the exposition, and each went away with a button.

The first day of the trip was most jubilant, and while a few have complained of the heat, most of the party are enjoying everything to the utmost.

At Reno the train was boarded by the local reception committee, who extended greetings and good wishes. There, too, became enthusiastic boosters for the exposition, and each went away with a button.

GOOD TIMES WAVE SWEEPS AUSTRALIA

Evidence of Material Prosperity Shown by Report on Exports.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 5.—A evidence of the material prosperity of Australia, Henry D. Baker, American vice consul general at Sydney, reports to the U. S. department of commerce that during the first four months of the year, exports from the country amounted to $126,000,000, which was $5,126,000 in excess of the imports and that the balance sheet of the trade of New South Wales shows in rounded figures of $15,000,000 in a single year.

During the same time, he says, the Sydney bank clearing bank cleared more than 18 per cent. Never before, he adds, have the banks of Australia had so large an amount of specie.

There is a good prospect of Australia breaking all previous trade records, he reports, and the wool clip, an export of $100,000,000, is expected to be increased by 10 per cent. During the first third of the year the imports increased by more than 9 per cent and the exports by more than 20 per cent.

High Wind Sweeps Massachusetts Town

LAWRENCE, Mass., Aug. 5.—This city was the center of a small tornado last night and the need of extreme vigilance was made felt by many of the residents, especially those residing in the center of the city. Trees by the score were toppled over, several houses were damaged, windows broken, electric and telephone wires blown down and streets blocked with debris. The city was in almost total darkness, and the wind was in some places as high as 100 miles an hour. One tree fell on a car, and another on a house, and a third on a church. The people of the Baptist church were split up by the wind and left leaning and in a precarious position.

EXPECTS TO SELL HALF MILLION CIGARS IN NEXT EIGHT MONTHS

Price Cutting Druggist Figuring on Doing Big Business by Selling the Best 12 1/2c Cigars for 10c Each and the 5c Staples, Seven for a Quarter—Does It Pay to Draw Trade to Store?

OSGOND, the cigar man, figures that if his business continues to develop as it has since the use of slot machines was discontinued, he will in the next eight months sell at least half a million cigars. The smokers of Oakland are beginning to learn that it is unnecessary to buy 12 1/2-cent cigars when they can procure the identical article for 10 cents, or even cheaper any of the regular 5-cent cigars at the rate of 7 for a quarter. This saving, although small, is a considerable one, and it is the yearling who have figured the proposition out estimate that by buying their cigars at Osgond's they will be able to save from $20 to $30 a year, which is quite a sum in his line.

"I expect to break all previous records between now and the end of the year," said Fred Osgond today. "I have arranged to carry all of the standard brands of 12 1/2-cent cigars, as well as all the popular nickel cigars. I will sell the former for 10 cents each, and the latter seven for a quarter, and I will carry as pretty a line of colors as any smoker ever saw."

"I want it thoroughly understood that these cigars are of the standard size. I heard a gentleman say yesterday that he presumed the Optimus I am selling for 10 cents were the regular 10-cent size. Now this is a mistake and an injustice to me. The Optimus that I sell for 10 cents are the standard two-for-a-quarter size, and if he had taken the trouble to investigate he would have found that he was very much mistaken. I am not running a skin game on this proposition and I want that fact thoroughly understood that I am giving the people the best on the market, and I am selling no small sizes and no seconds, and nothing else but the best and most selected goods. I have an expert in charge of the cigar department at my store on the corner of Twelfth and Washington streets and another expert in charge of the cigar department in my store at the corner of Seventh and Broadway."

Furthermore, I know something about the cigar business myself, and between the three of us we not only see that we get good stock, but we get the people the best on the market, and we pay spot cash for our goods. We buy in big quantities, and we insist upon getting the choicest colors and the best shapes to be had."

Mr. Osgond invites any judge of cigars to visit either one of these two departments and to examine his stock. He is very anxious to impress everybody with the quality of his goods. It is a mistake to say that a year out of his cigar expenses enough to buy him a suit of clothes without having to cut down any at all on his smoking. It is a proposition well worth investigation, and Mr. Osgond says any man who does not at least look into the matter is doing himself an injustice.
